

The Quality Sourcebook's Certification/Registration Guide features information on companies that provide products and services specifically related to ISO 9000, QS-9000, ISO 14000, AS9000 and other international standards or customer requirements.

The explosive growth of ISO 9000 during the last 10 years has greatly expanded the certification world. ISO 9000 has spawned a host of related standards, such as AS9100 for aerospace suppliers and TL 9000 for telecommunications suppliers. The automotive industry's QS-9000 quality system requirements has led to the development of a set of Quality System Requirements known as the Tooling and Equipment Supplement to QS-9000. QS-9000 is due to be replaced in the near future by ISO/TS 16949, which harmonizes the quality system requirements of the U.S., German, Italian, British and French automakers.

ISO 9000 will be updated in 2000 with the release of ISO 9000:2000. This all-new version of ISO 9000 scraps the existing structure of ISO 9000, replacing the well-known "20 elements" with four major categories. The new ISO 9000 will, at the very least, require companies to re-evaluate their quality systems.

For more information on any of the products or services listed in this section, contact the companies directly. Please be sure to mention you saw their listings in Quality Digest's 2000 Quality Sourcebook!

Rather, it's meant to be used as the starting point in the data-gathering process. Readers are encouraged to contact the companies directly for more information and to ask for—and check—references.

We appreciate any feedback you have on our Certification Guide. If you have any suggestions for how we can improve this guide for next year, e-mail them to sourcebook@qualitydigest.com.
